

Ashley is a student who lives in a shared accommodation. She often got troubled by roommates don't take out trash when it is their shift to do so, or never get groceries back to compensate the ones used up.

She found this Kitchen Kat digital board. Seems that this could help her a lot.

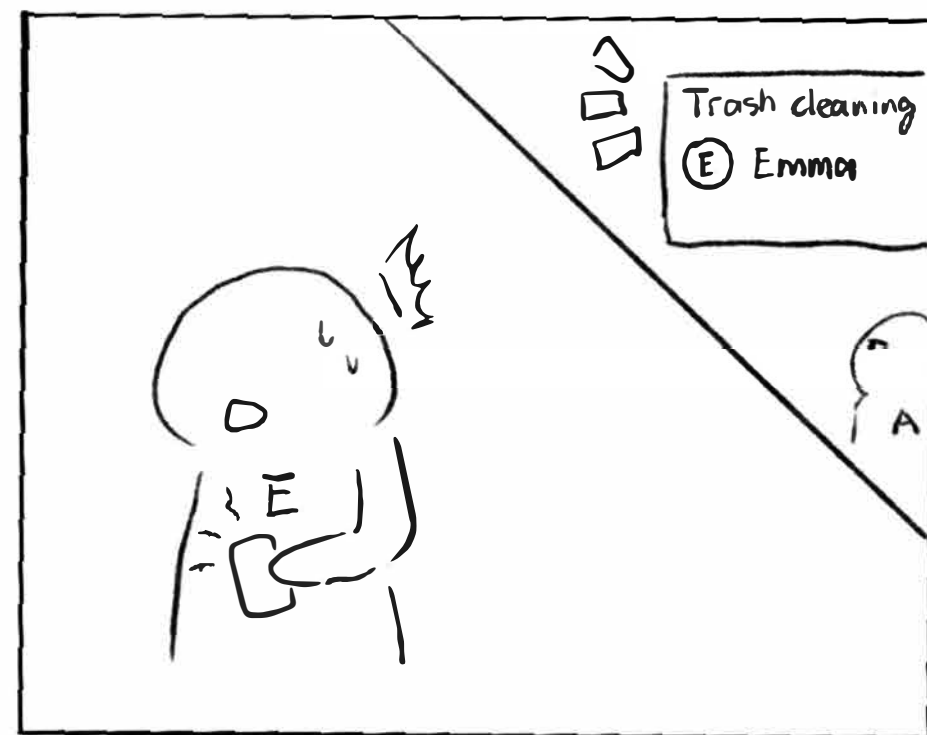

Roomates are able to register what grocery is running low and what product is in urgen need.

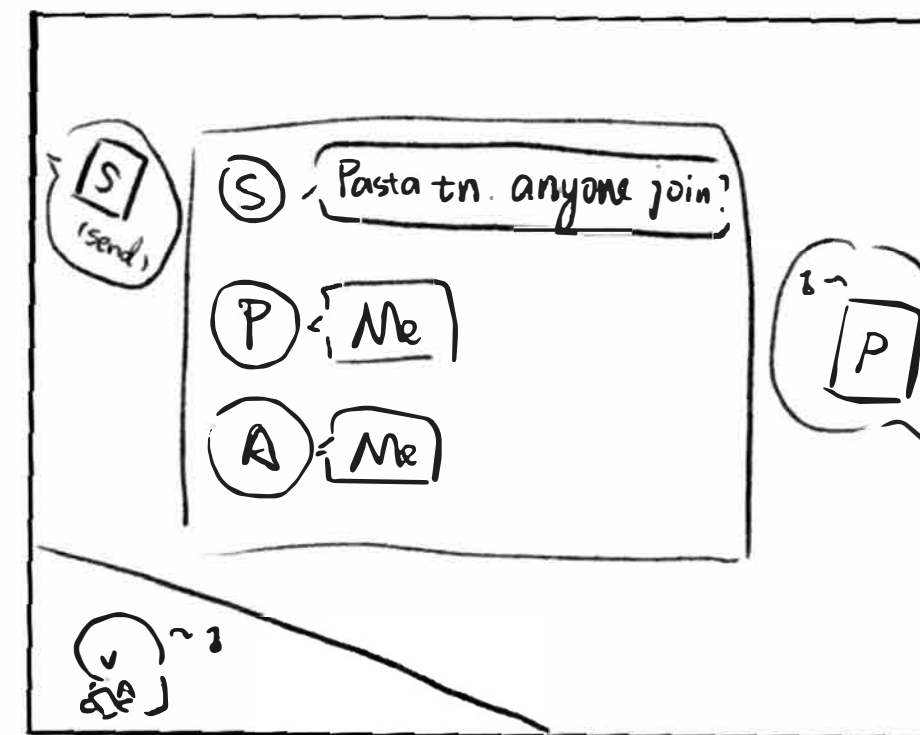

Ashley will double check before she leaves the house for grocery

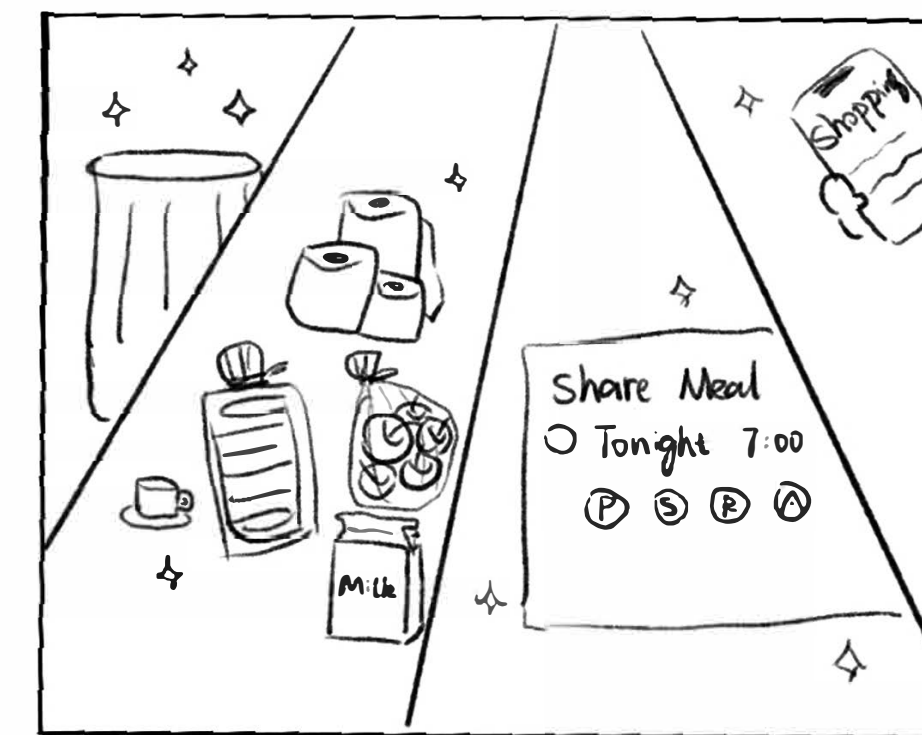

She does not have to worry about forgetting the groceries she should get when shopping. The phone application version will sync automatically with the board.

When it is her roommate's taking out trash day and they forgot, the board will sync the information with their phone and send notification to them as a reminder.

When it is her roommate's taking out trash day and they forgot, the board will sync the information with their phone and send notification to them as a reminder.

With this application, her life with roomates are more harmonious. The tasks are distributed and completed on time and evenly.